St. Andrews Wrestling Coach Has Podcast Interview with *Wrestling 411

June 10, 2009

LAURINBURG, N.C.—Joe Baranik, St. Andrews Presbyterian College head wrestling coach, was the featured guest in a weekly radio podcast by Wrestling 411. Baranik took part in a 17-minute interview by hosts Kyle Klingman and Jason Bryant that first aired on June 5.

Release posted on the Wrestling 411 website

Written by Jason Bryant, Production Manager/Writer for Wrestling 411

Joe Baranik has been several places as an assistant college wrestling coach. His goal was always to end up being a head coach. Three years ago, St. Andrews Presbyterian College announced it was starting a wrestling program and hired Baranik.

After starting his career in Pennsylvania, Baranik has nestled into the Division II landscape at the tiny Laurinburg, N.C., school.

Baranik also has been a crusader in wrestling promotion and publication, contributing to the Pennsylvania Wrestling Newsmagazine since its inception. The PWN was voted Publication of the Year by the National Wrestling Media Association.
